One night Peter and some of Jesus' other followers went fishing. They were on the boat all night, but they did not catch any fish. Early the next morning, Jesus' followers saw someone on the shore. The person called out. He told them to put their nets into the water again.

Jesus' followers put the nets back into the water. They were surprised when they saw the nets filled with fish. They suddenly knew that the person on the shore was Jesus.

Peter was excited. He jumped into the water and swam to shore. The other followers came in the boat. Jesus said to them, "Come, have breakfast." (John 21:12)
